BOARD OF TRADE RESUMES ACTIVITIES AFTER HOLIDAY

After a holiday of three months the Board of Trade resumed its regular sessions on evening last week in S. E. Dafne's Coffee Shoppe, with some 18 members present.

President Boyd occupied the chair. It was explained to the meeting that during the vacation period the executive had held two different meetings, both on road matters, and had attended to other minor matters as they arose, all of which was outlined to the members present.

Regarding the Arrowwood road the department had made no appropriation for 1934, for any work white and much needed repairs, so it was decided to take the matter up at next springtime with the Edmonton authorities in hopes that the road would be put in much better condition than it is at present. A standing committee consisting of Messrs. Black, Dafne and Bolingue were selected to look into the road situation, report from time to time and make recommendations to the Board in connection.

The entertainment committee were asked to co-operate with the executive of the Old Timers Association and see if it were possible to arrange for the annual Old Timers Ball and Banquet early in December.

Several members brought up the question of danger to children from the fast and reckless motor driving so prevalent these days. Particularly was this so along the main highway in front of the school and through the town. The secretary was instructed to write to the Board of Education and have them work out a solution.

A. R. Yates gave a talk on the light franchise, stating that the council were still working away on a new and he hoped a better franchise for the town. At the present time it is in the tender hands of the Board of Public Utilities Edmonton.

E. J. GARLAND, M.P., ADDRESSES LOCAL FARM WOMEN

A regular meeting of the Gleichen U. F. W. A. was held at the home of Mrs. W. H. McKeever with a large number of members present and several visitors. Several items of business were discussed.

Mrs. Ethridge read a very interesting paper on "The Train." This was followed by a lively debate between Mr. Buckley Sr. and Mrs. Buckley, on "Which is the best service, the country, the train or the bus and truck lines." The meeting acted as a committee of the whole and awarded the victory to Mrs. Buckley, Sr., in favor of the train.

The meeting had been changed to make it possible for the members to hear Mrs. C. S. Spencer last, owing to a car accident she was unable to be there. The disappointment was soon forgotten when Mr. Garland, M.P., arrived to take her place and bravely faced the large number of women alone. Those who did not attend this meeting missed a great treat and the opportunity to have many doubtful points made clear. Mr. Garland followed the advancements of the farmers cause from its beginning to the present and showed how it had broadened and finally merged into the C. C. F. Mr. Garland implied the women to read, to study, to try to understand conditions and be prepared to do things.

All together it was a very full and instructive afternoon.

Our age is overdoing everything. We do not know when to stop. We refuse to recognize the danger signals. We are producing too many books, and digesting too many inferior books. Our legislatures are making too many laws. Our government is spending too much money. The world needs leadership, but it will never have the type of leadership it needs until more persons are sure where they are going, what they will do after they get there, and why they are doing what they are doing. People are advised not to eat too much, if they would reduce their girth, prevent shortness of breath, rheumatism, and other ills. Then they start out on a rigid diet, go to extremes, deprive the body of what it requires. Malicious rebels and the evil results are set out on the conditions, these give

HOCKEY LEAGUE ORGANIZED AT MEETING SUNDAY

W. Sutermeister, secretary of the Gunnars and W. McConnell, business manager of the team attended a meeting at Calgary to form a league hockey with the towns to the west. The following report of the meeting has been handed us:

As a result of a meeting held at the residence of J. T. North, secretary of the A. A. H. A. one of the most promising leagues in intermediate hockey in this province has sprung into existence. Banff, Canmore, Strathmore and Gleichen have combined in forming the Central Alberta Intermediate Hockey League leaving also an opening for an intermediate team from Calgary.

Within a few days it will be known whether the Consols, Garibaldi or some other team will join the league and in this case a live team league will be the result.

It is believed that with the set back that professional hockey has temporarily suffered in the city of Calgary, a league of this kind will be well received in the foothill city.

With regard to the outlaying towns, the forming of this league will solve the question of monotonous two-team hockey and will create a great drawing card full of pep, variety and thrills for the fans, in the line of intermediate hockey.

HOW TO BUILD AN EARTH DAM

(Lethbridge Experimental Farm Notes)

A water reservoir affords feasible means of storing water that ordinarily runs off the land and goes to waste. It should be built in a manner that minimizes the cost of the dam, once a suitable site has been found, your winter is devoting this week's letter to the building of an earth dam recommended for ordinary farm use.

The spillway is so important a part of the reservoir that it should be given first consideration. It usually is made by digging a ditch around and some distance away from one end of the dam. The purpose of the spillway is to carry away any water, especially in time of flood, that cannot be held in the reservoir and it is therefore important to make the spillway ditch with plenty of width and the bottom of it should be at least three feet below the top of the dam. This is to provide ample freeboard and prevent the water from running over the top of the dam. Many earth dams have been washed out through lack of adequate spillway facilities.

An earth dam should measure 8 feet across the top when finished and its bottom should be five times the height of the dam plus the top width of 2 feet. This provides for 3 feet 1 inch on the water side of the dam and 2 to 1 slope on the dry side. The water side is made with more slope to give extra protection against wave action.

An easy way to lay out the foundation for the dam, described by F. H. Peters in his bulletin on farm water supply, is worth quoting. Start by marking the centre line of the dam, across the gap to be filled, with stakes 10 feet apart. Set the first stake at one side where the top of the dam is going to come. Then sight across with a level, a carpenter's level will do, and mark the height from the line level to the ground at each foot stake. The last stake fix the other end of the dam will come where your level line hits the other side hill or slope. Then at each foot stake, dig out from the height marked what the bottom will be, fill in and then lay out the dam with an earth line at the centre line and at angles to it with slope pegs. When you are finished, the area marked out by the slope pegs will show the foundation for the dam and it will be shaped like a big willow leaf, broad in the middle where the dam is going to be highest, and coming to a point eight feet wide at each end.

The soil on the reservoir area must be left undisturbed, this applies to prairie dams rather than those built in irrigation districts, otherwise seepage losses are likely to be increased unnecessarily. However the soil from the foundation area of the

The radio commission has been the target of much criticism, a large part of it being of the non-constructive type. Much of this criticism has been unfair. But many Canadian radio enthusiasts refuse to admit this. They realize that the commission has put Canada on the air. Several excellent features by Canadian artists have been developed, some of these being so good that they can hardly

"Dear Sirs!"

ONE disadvantage of selling by mail is that you have no opportunity of seeing and getting to know, as individuals, the people whom you are serving.

In our great City stores one always sees their customers face to face. They talk to them—get to know them—learn their likes and dislikes, and help them in their little problems of buying. Gradually, however, is built up between us and our customers a personal, friendly relationship that we value more than "nick finds" and "nick loses." Much Order ends of things, such contact is almost impossible. Dealing with customers by mail miles away, we have little opportunity of cultivating that personal relationship which we value so highly, and which can be so greatly helpful to the customer.

That is why we are always sending "personal" letters to our customers. Such messages help us to know you better and better. We appreciate very much the few words which prompt the writing of such interesting and valuable letters as those you send us. An inquiry about some little question of ours is a great compliment—no suggestion regarding our products or service—or a "friendly word" or two—will be welcome. Please do us a favor. Drop us a line!
